

Refund Policy

DIGITAL PURCHASES | 2026 EDITION | EFFECTIVE 13 OCTOBER 2026

We want every purchaser of The Idle Acre to receive the files described in the listing and have a fair way to resolve problems. This policy provides a voluntary satisfaction refund in addition to any consumer rights that the law gives you.

1 Our 14-day satisfaction promise

If you are dissatisfied for any reason, you may request a full refund within 14 calendar days after your purchase date, including if you already downloaded or opened the files. You do not have to justify your decision to qualify under this voluntary promise. Feedback is welcome but optional.

2 How to request it

Contact realagronomics@gmail.com using the email associated with your order or use the support or resolution facilities Whop provides. Include a Whop order reference or enough details for us to locate the purchase. Do not send full payment-card numbers or sensitive identity documents. We will instruct Whop to return an approved refund using its supported process.

3 Digital files and technical issues

The Idle Acre is a digital-only bundle; there is nothing physical to return. If your files are inaccessible, incomplete, corrupted or materially different from the product description, contact us so we can try to put it right. Your statutory remedies for digital content that is faulty, misdescribed or not delivered are not limited to the 14-day voluntary window.

4 Refund processing

Refunds are normally returned through Whop to the original payment method. Processing and bank posting times vary. We do not impose a separate administration fee on eligible refunds, and we comply with any mandatory refund deadlines.

5 Access following a refund

Once a refund is completed, Whop access to the product may be revoked. Any permission to continue using copies supplied under the refunded purchase ends, except where applicable law preserves rights. Please do not redistribute the files.

6 Statutory cancellation rights

Where UK consumer law applies, digital content is generally subject to a 14-day cancellation framework. The right may end after supply begins only when legally required express consent to immediate supply and acknowledgement of loss of the cancellation right were collected and confirmed. If the required steps were not completed, the statutory right can remain.

Our voluntary 14-day satisfaction promise remains available even when a valid statutory early-supply acknowledgement has been given. Nothing here restricts other mandatory protections for consumers in the UK or elsewhere.
